

REBUILDING A HOME?

Funds are available for energy efficient construction

Advanced Energy Rebuild

The Advanced Energy Rebuild (AER) program provides up to $7,000 per home in financial incentives to rebuild energy efficient manufactured homes after the Tubbs, Carr, and Camp wildfires.

Which Properties Are Eligible?

AER incentives are available to all homes that were red-tagged by CAL FIRE in the 2017 or 2018 northern California wildfires and received service from Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E), Sonoma Clean Power, or MCE.

Manufactured homes that are built to ENERGY STAR Version 2 certification are eligible to apply for program incentives. Bonus incentives are available for choosing an all-electric home with high efficiency equipment and appliances.

What Incentives Are Available?

Incentives for manufactured homes are available as follows:

BASE INCENTIVE

Receive a $3,000 base incentive for purchasing an ENERGY STAR Version 2 certified home

BONUS INCENTIVES

Additional incentive kickers are available for the following measures:

- + > $1,000 bonus incentive for NEEM Plus certified homes
- + > $1,000 bonus incentive for a 7.5 kWh or higher capacity battery storage system
- All-Electric Home Bonus Incentives:
- + > $1,000 bonus incentive for all-electric homes with a heat pump water heater
- + > $500 bonus incentive for all-electric homes with a heat pump space heater
- + > $500 bonus incentive for all-electric homes with induction cooktops

Incentives are also available for site-built homes and accessory dwelling units (ADUs). A different application is required for these incentives. View the AER site-built homes flyer for more information about site-built custom, modular, or production homes.*
